PREFACE

This report presents statistics on the number of inhabitants of the State, its counties, and minor civil divisions (townships, etc.). In addition, separate figures are also presented for urban places, wards of cities of 5,000 or more, and other areas of the State. These data are based upon tabulations from the Seventeenth Decennial Census of the population of the United States, its Territories, and possessions conducted as of April 1, 1950. Provision for the Seventeenth Decennial Census was made in the act providing for the Fifteenth and subsequent decennial censuses which was approved on June 18, 1929.

The major portion of the information compiled from the Census of Population of 1950 will appear in Volume I, Number of Inhabitants, and in Volume II, Characteristics of the Population. This report is a preprint of Chapter 37 (Oregon) of Volume I, which is to present, in a single publication, statistics on the number of inhabitants for each State.

The materials presented here will also appear as Chapter A of Part 37 (Oregon) of Volume II. Volume II will comprise a series of separately published parts, one for each State and a summary for the United States. The use of separate parts makes the basic materials on characteristics of the population for a given State available to the public in a single publication. Within the part for a State, Chapter A will recapitulate the statistics on the number and distribution of the population within a State; Chapter B will present statistics on the general characteristics of the population of the various political subdivisions of the State, such as counties, incorporated places, and the like; and Chapter C will present data on the detailed characteristics of the population of the larger areas within the State, such as cities of 100,000 inhabitants or more and standard metropolitan areas.

The materials presented here were prepared under the supervision of Howard G. Brunsman, Chief, Population and Housing Division, and Dr. Henry S. Shryock, Jr., Assistant Chief for Population Statistics, by Dr. Henry D. Sheldon, Chief, Demographic Statistics Section, and Charles P. Brinkman, Chief, Population Distribution Unit; the compilation of the statistics was under the direction of Robert B. Voight, Assistant Chief for Operations. The collection of the information on which these statistics are based was under the supervision of Lowell T. Galt, Chief, Field Division. The geographic work, including the delineation of special types of urban territory and the preparation of maps, was under the supervision of Clarence E. Batschelet, Chief, Geography Division.

Succeeding volumes will cover the following subjects:

Census Tracts, Nativity and Parentage, Nonwhite Population by Race, Persons of Spanish Surname, Institutional Population, Differential Fertility, Labor Force Characteristics, Occupation, Industry, Income, Internal Migration, Education, Characteristics of Families and Households.

U. S. CENSUS OF HOUSING: 1950

Volume

- I General Characteristics
- II Nonfarm Housing Characteristics
- III Farm Housing Characteristics
- IV Residential Financing
- V Block Statistics

Housing statistics for census tracts are to be included in the Population reports on census tracts.

OREGON

Number of Inhabitants

The State.—Oregon was organized as a Territory in 1848, at which time it included the area now constituting the States of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and parts of western Montana and Wyoming. The area of the Territory was greatly reduced in 1853 by the organization of the Territory of Washington. In 1859, with the transfer to Washington Territory of the area now comprising southern Idaho, western Wyoming, and a small tract in western Montana, Oregon assumed its present boundaries and was admitted to the Union as the thirty-third State. Its population on April 1, 1950, according to the Seventeenth Census, was 1,521,341. The State has a land area of 96,315 square miles. In 1950 there was an average of 15.8 inhabitants per square mile as compared with an average of 11.3 in 1940. Among the States, Oregon ranked thirty-second in population and ninth in land area.

In 1860, the first year in which it was enumerated as a State in a Federal census, Oregon had a population of 52,465 (table 1). In 1950, 90 years later, its population was 29 times as large. The intercensal rates of growth for the State have always been higher than the rates for the Nation as a whole. The rates of growth for the period 1860 to 1900 ranged from 30.2 to 92.2 percent. The rates in the twentieth century ranged from 14.2 percent for the decade 1930 to 1940 to 62.7 percent for the decade 1900 to 1910. The numerical gain of 431,657 between 1940 and 1950 was the largest in the history of the State and represented a gain of 39.6 percent over the 1,089,684 persons enumerated in 1940.

Usual place of residence.—According to usual Census practice, which dates back to 1790, each person enumerated in the 1950 Census was counted as an inhabitant of his usual place of residence or usual place of abode, which is generally construed to mean the place where he lives and sleeps most of the time. This place is not necessarily the same as his legal residence, voting residence, or domicile, although, in the vast majority of cases, these different bases of classification would be identical.

In the application of this rule, persons were not always counted as residents of the places in which they happened to be found by the census enumerators. Persons in places where guests usually pay for quarters (hotels, etc.) were enumerated on the night of April 11, and those whose usual place of residence was elsewhere were allocated to their homes. Visitors found staying in private homes, however, were not ordinarily interviewed there. Information on persons away from their usual place of residence was obtained from other members of their families, landlords, etc. If an entire family was expected to be away during the whole period of the enumeration, information on it was obtained from neighbors. A matching process was used to eliminate duplicate reports for persons who reported for themselves while away and were also reported by their families at home.

Persons in the armed forces quartered on military installations were enumerated as residents of the States, counties, and minor civil divisions in which their installations were located. Members of their families were enumerated where they actually resided. In the 1950 Census, college students living away from home were considered residents of the communities in which they were residing while attending college, rather than as persons temporarily absent from their parental homes as was the practice in 1940. In 1950 the crews of vessels of the American Merchant Marine in harbors of the United States were counted as part of the population of the ports in which their vessels were berthed on April 1, 1950. In 1940 such persons were treated as part of the population of the port from which the vessel operated. Inmates of institutions, who ordinarily live there for long periods of time, were counted as inhabitants of the place in which the institution was located; whereas patients in general hospitals, who ordinarily have short stays, were counted at, or allocated to, their homes. All persons without a usual place of residence were counted where they were enumerated.

Urban and rural population.—The 1950 urban population of Oregon comprised 819,318 persons, or 53.9 percent of the population of the State (table 1). The urban population was living in the 49 urban places in the State and in other territory included in the Oregon part of the urban fringe of the Portland, Oreg., Urbanized Area. More than 45 percent of the urban population of Oregon was living in Portland, the largest city in the State (table 2).

The rural population of Oregon comprised 702,023 persons, or 46.1 percent of the population of the State (table 1). Of the rural population, 78,003 persons, or 11.1 percent, were living in 42 incorporated and 7 unincorporated places of 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants (table 2).

Urban definition.—Under the urban definition established for use in the 1950 Census, the urban population comprises all persons living in (a) places of 2,500 inhabitants or more incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns,¹ and villages; (b) the densely settled urban fringe, including both incorporated and unincorporated areas, around cities of 50,000 or more; and (c) unincorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more outside any urban fringe. The remaining population is classified as rural. According to the urban definition used in previous censuses, the urban population comprises all persons living in incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more and areas (usually minor civil divisions) classified as urban under special rules relating to population size and density.

In both definitions, the most important component of the urban territory is the group of incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more. A definition of urban territory restricted to such places, however, would exclude a number of equally large and densely settled places, merely because they were not incorporated places. Under the old definition, an effort was made to avoid some of the more obvious omissions by the inclusion of the places urban under special rules. Even with these rules, however, many large and closely built-up places were excluded from the urban territory. To improve the situation in the 1950 Census, the Bureau of the Census set up, in advance of enumeration, boundaries for urban-fringe areas around cities of 50,000 or more and for unincorporated places outside urban fringes. All the population residing in urban-fringe areas and in unincorporated places of 2,500 or more is classified as urban according to the 1950 definition. (Of course, the incorporated places of 2,500 or more are urban in their own right.) Consequently, the special rules of the old definition are no longer necessary.

According to the new urban definition, the 1950 urban population of Oregon consisted of the following components: (1) The 732,247 inhabitants of the 47 incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more; (2) the 12,116 inhabitants of the 2 unincorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more; and (3) the 74,955 persons living in other territory included in the urban fringe of the Oregon part of the Portland, Oreg., Urbanized Area. Since there were no places urban under special rule according to the old urban definition, the population of the first element comprised the urban population under the old definition. The population of the remaining elements—87,071—represents the gain in the urban population of Oregon which resulted from the change in definition.

Although the Bureau of the Census has employed other definitions in the course of its history, the statistics on the population by urban and rural residence for the years 1850 to 1940 are shown in accordance with the 1940 definition. The 1950 statistics are shown in accordance with both the new and old definitions.

Trends of urban and rural population.—Trends in the urban and rural population can be examined only on the basis of the old definition. On this basis, the 1950 urban population of 732,247 was more than five times as large as the 1900 urban population of 133,180. The most rapid rate of growth in the urban population over the 50-year period came in the decade 1900 to 1910, when it more than doubled. The numerical increase of 200,572 between 1940 and 1950 was the largest intercensal gain in the urban population in the history of the State. The rate of increase for the decade was 37.7 percent, the most rapid rate since that for the decade 1900 to 1910. All but 1 of the 11 cities of 10,000 inhabitants or more in the State participated in the increase in the urban population between 1940 and 1950, with the rates of change ranging from a decline of 3.8 percent for Klamath Falls to an increase of 184.0 percent for Springfield (table 4). In 1900 there were 90,426 persons living in the one city of 10,000 inhabitants or more in the State; by 1950 there were 558,470 persons living in the 11 cities of this size (table 3). The proportion of the population of Oregon living in urban territory increased from 32.2 to 48.1 percent between 1900 and 1950.

The rural population of Oregon increased from 280,356 in 1900 to 789,094 in 1950 (table 1). The largest numerical increase and the most rapid rate of growth over the 50-year period came in the decade 1940 to 1950, when the rural population increased by 231,085, or 41.4 percent. The numerical gain for the decade was the largest in the history of the State, whereas the rate of increase was the largest since that for the decade 1880 to 1890. The proportion of the population of Oregon living in rural territory declined from 67.8 percent in 1900 to 48.7 percent in 1950. In the following two decades, however, the proportion rose to 51.9 percent.

Counties.—The 36 counties in Oregon ranged in size from Sherman with a population of 2,271 to Multnomah with a population of 471,537. Between 1940 and 1950, 32 of the counties shared in the population growth of the State. Of the four counties which lost population all but Baker also had lost population in the previous decade. Two counties, Jefferson and Douglas, more than doubled in population between 1940 and 1950. More than one-fourth of the population increase in the State was accounted for by Multnomah County (table 5).

Minor civil divisions.—To the primary political divisions into which counties are subdivided, the Bureau of the Census applies the general term "minor civil divisions." The minor civil divisions in Oregon are election precincts. The incorporated cities and towns form subdivisions of the minor civil divisions in which they are located.

Table 6 shows statistics on the population of each county by minor civil divisions for the last three censuses. Cities and towns made up of entire precincts are shown in roman type, and the precincts are shown in italics. The population of the remaining incorporated places and unincorporated places is shown in italics under the population of the minor civil divisions in which the places are located. When an incorporated or unincorporated place lies in two or more minor civil divisions, the population of the several parts is shown in table 6 in the appropriate counties and minor civil divisions, and each part is designated by "part." Figures on the total population of such places are given in table 7. Unincorporated places are designated by "uninc." Changes between the 1940 Census and the 1950 Census in the boundaries of the areas listed are shown in notes to table 6. For changes in boundaries prior to the 1940 Census, see reports of the Sixteenth Census (1940), Population, Vol. I, pp. 887-894, and reports of earlier censuses.

Incorporated and unincorporated places.—In 1950 Oregon had 219 places incorporated as cities and towns and 9 unincorporated places of 1,000 inhabitants or more. Of the 858,447 persons living in the incorporated places, 126,200 were in the 172 places of fewer than 2,500 inhabitants. The seven places of 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants accounted for 11,938 of the 24,054 persons living in the unincorporated places. The incorporated places ranged in size from Westfall and Whitney towns with a population of 3 to Portland city with a population of 373,628.

Political units recognized as incorporated places in the 1950 Census are those which are incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns, and villages with the exception that towns are not recognized as incorporated places in the New England States, New York, and Wisconsin.

The Bureau of the Census has delineated boundaries for the thickly settled urban fringe around cities of 50,000 or more and has also delineated boundaries for unincorporated places of 1,000 or more which are densely settled population centers without corporate limits. Although there are unincorporated places within the urban fringe, it was not feasible to establish boundaries for such places and therefore they are not identified as separate places.

The count of urban places in the 1950 Census comprises all incorporated places of 2,500 or more regardless of location and unincorporated places of 2,500 or more which are located outside the urban-fringe areas. Incorporated places of less than 2,500 which lie in the urban fringe are not recognized as urban places.

Urbanized areas.—The Portland, Oreg., Urbanized Area, which is located in Oregon and Washington, had a total population of 512,643. Of the 470,291 inhabitants of the Oregon part of the urbanized area, 373,628 were living in Portland, the central city of the urbanized area, and 96,663 were living in the urban fringe. That part of the urban fringe in Oregon had 24,142 persons in six incorporated places and 72,521 in the unincorporated parts (tables 2 and 9).

Each urbanized area contains at least one city with 50,000 inhabitants or more in 1940 or according to a special census taken since 1940, and some urbanized areas contain two or more cities of 50,000. Each urbanized area also includes the surrounding closely settled incorporated places and unincorporated areas that meet the criteria listed in the section below on "Urban fringe." Thus, the territory of an urbanized area may be classified into incorporated parts and unincorporated parts. (See urbanized area map.)

An urbanized area also may be divided into central city or cities and urban fringe as defined below.

Central cities.—Although an urbanized area may contain more than one city of 50,000 or more, not all cities of this size are necessarily central cities. The largest city of an area is always a central city. In addition, the second and third most populous cities in the area may qualify as central cities provided they have a population of at least one-third of that of the largest city in the area and a minimum of 25,000 inhabitants. The names of the individual urbanized areas indicate the central cities of the areas.

Urban fringe.—The urban fringe includes that part of the urbanized area which is outside the central city or cities. The following types of areas are embraced if they are contiguous to the central city or cities or if they are contiguous to any area already included in the urban fringe:

1. Incorporated places with 2,500 inhabitants or more in 1940 or at a subsequent special census conducted prior to 1950.

2. Incorporated places with fewer than 2,500 inhabitants containing an area with a concentration of 100 dwelling units or more with a density in this concentration of 500 units or more per square mile. This density represents approximately 2,000 persons per square mile and normally is the minimum found associated with a closely spaced street pattern.

3. Unincorporated territory with at least 500 dwelling units per square mile.

4. Territory devoted to commercial, industrial, transportation, recreational, and other purposes functionally related to the central city.

Also included are outlying noncontiguous areas with the required dwelling unit density located within 1½ miles of the main contiguous urbanized part, measured along the shortest connecting highway, and other outlying areas within one-half mile of such noncontiguous areas which meet the minimum residential density rule.

² Includes 74,955 persons in urban territory outside of urban places.

³ Excludes population (1,201) of parts taken to form part of Washington Territory in 1853 and 1859.

Table 6.—POPULATION OF COUNTIES BY MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS: 1930 TO 1950

["Uninc." designates an unincorporated place. "Precincts" shown here are election precincts. Minor civil division figures for 1940 and 1930 do not necessarily add to county totals. Figures for 1940 and 1930 are not available for unincorporated places or places incorporated since Apr. 1, 1940. Cities and towns composed of entire precincts are shown in roman type, and the precincts are shown in italics. Boundary changes between 1940 and 1950 are given in footnotes; for changes between 1930 and 1940, see reports of the 16th Census (1940), Population, Vol. I, pp. 887-894. Total population of a place located in 2 or more minor civil divisions appears in table 7]

PORTLAND URBANIZED AREA MAP

The Portland Urbanized Area, for which statistics are shown in table 9, is depicted in the following map. The shaded areas, in combination, comprise the urbanized area. To assist in locating the exact external boundaries of the area, each boundary feature (street segment, political boundary, or other) has been assigned a number. The boundary segments thus numbered are shown on the map and the features to which they apply are presented in the following key.
